European Dividend Stocks To Consider Now

Top 10 Dividend Stocks In Europe Name Dividend Yield Dividend Rating Zurich Insurance Group (SWX:ZURN) ★★★★★★ Rubis (ENXTPA:RUI)

★★★★★★

OVB Holding (XTRA:O4B)

★★★★★★

Les Docks des Pétroles d'Ambès -SA (ENXTPA:DPAM)

★★★★★★

Julius Bär Gruppe (SWX:BAER)

★★★★★★

Holcim (SWX:HOLN)

★★★★★★

HEXPOL (OM:HPOL B)

★★★★★★

ERG (BIT:ERG)

★★★★★★

Banque Cantonale Vaudoise (SWX:BCVN)

★★★★★★

Allianz (XTRA:ALV)

★★★★★★

Here's a peek at a few of the choices from the screener.

Simply Wall St Dividend Rating: ★★★★☆☆

Overview: B&C Speakers S.p.A. specializes in producing and marketing professional loudspeakers under the B&C brand, with a market cap of €183.30 million.

Operations: B&C Speakers S.p.A. generates its revenue primarily from Acoustic Transducers, amounting to €102.34 million.

Dividend Yield:

B&C Speakers shows a mixed dividend profile. The company offers a high dividend yield of 5.93%, placing it in the top 25% of Italian market payers, but its sustainability is questionable due to a high cash payout ratio of 104.7%. Although dividends have grown over the past decade, they have been volatile and unreliable. Recent earnings growth and trading below estimated fair value may appeal to some investors despite these concerns.

Simply Wall St Dividend Rating: ★★★★☆☆

Overview: Sogeclair SA offers engineering and production services to the aeronautics, space, civil, and military transport sectors in France with a market cap of €89.70 million.

Operations: Sogeclair SA generates revenue through its Solutions segment, accounting for €80.60 million, and its Engineering segment, contributing €76.40 million.

Dividend Yield:

Sogeclair's dividend profile presents both strengths and weaknesses. The company maintains a sustainable dividend with a reasonable payout ratio of 66.2% and a low cash payout ratio of 19.2%, indicating strong coverage by earnings and cash flows. However, its 3.27% yield is below the top tier in France, and dividends have been volatile over the past decade despite overall growth. Currently trading at 61.8% below estimated fair value, it may attract value-focused investors.

Recommended stories